David MacDonald became a Catholic in 1995. His journey to the doors of the Church has been a source of much interest for youth groups, pro-life advocates and Catholics from many parts of the world who invite David to sing and give testimony. Born into a secular non-Catholic family, David moved to New York City from Ottawa, and at 21 years old he appeared on Broadway. For 3 years was at the heart of the New York and L.A. entertainment world producing music for CBS records, co-starring in films for Columbia and Paramount Pictures, and ABC-TV. David's experience with abortion led to addiction and the loss of his voice at 24 years old, while starring in the National tour of the Broadway musical "Cats." He is currently returning from a music tour of India after having performing at the Sydney Opera House for World Youth Day 2008.
